Strain Profile

The breeding process of this variety began in 2019, selecting the parents that had the most fruity and scandalous terpene profile (loudy or noisy). The result was a poly hybrid between the famous Mango Biche land race from Colombia, with Thai Stick from Thailand, Cherry Noir from Mendocino County in the United States and the legendary Black Domina developed in Europe from Afghan plants.

Colombiana is a hybrid with a predominance of Indica, with a powerful, narcotic, physical and relaxing effect at the same time. Its high THC content (22-26%) makes it ideal for treating anxiety disorders, depression and insomnia. However, its characteristic terpene profile of its sativa ancestry, allow it to complement its high potency with an appropriate entourage effect in which the High is quite long and manageable, ideal for daily use and socializing.

Terpenes Profile

Colombiana is a variety that evokes the most representative of the Colombian tropics by offering a complex range of fruity aromas ranging from sweet, floral and citric. Expert tasters rate its terpene profile similar to that of an apple soda.

Colombiana offers a complex terpene profile that is preserved in each puff, allowing you to identify flavors that are not easily found in the current market trend varieties.
